

XIV. — BIBLIOGRAPHY:

The primary aim of the Bibliography which we publish in our « Missions » is to acquaint the whole Congregation with every new work published by the Oblates. As our « Missions » is a practical means of advertising, it is to the interest of our authors to send us a copy of their publications. Moreover, it is essential that in one house, at least, of the Congregation there should be a complete library of Oblate work ; and the place for such a library is primarily the General House. This library should contain all publications treating of our Oblates, and, especially, every work written by our Oblates. It is a filial duty of each member of the Congregation, not to mention of our authors, to co-operate in this matter.

It would be false modesty for any of our authors to assume that his work was of too little value to warrant sending us a copy. If his work is worth publication, it is worth listing and cataloguing in our Bibliography which was so ably begun in 1922, by Rev. Fr. Marcel Bernad.

We would ask, therefore, that you send us two copies of each new publication, addressing them to Very Rev. Fr. General.

PENARD. J. M. O. M. I. — The Vicar Apostolic of Keewatin, Bishop Ovide Charlebois. Translated from the French by Mary Agatha Gray. In-8°, 241 pp., Montreal, Beauchemin.

In the present publication, modestly styled by the author a brochure (of 241 pages !), Rev. Fr. PENARD pictures the busy, apostolic life of the first Vicar Apostolic of Keewatin. He follows him on his travels throughout his vast Vicariate, and shows vividly the rich results of 46 years of apostolate. He also portrays the inner life of the missionary Bishop, his supernatural spirit, his religious and sacerdotal virtues, and his deep love of souls. The author was able to draw his material not only from the diary and writings of the deceased Bishop, but also from the friendship with which Mgr. CHARLEBOIS had honoured him. Hence, the work, while being of great historical value in regard to the mission of Keewatin, is also of spiritual worth, and will certainly foster apostolic vocations.

SCHULTE, Paul O. M. I. — Wings for the Tabernacle. A sick call in the Arctic. In-12°, 25 pp. Published by the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, Boston (Mass.), 49 Franklin St.

Our « Missions » (1938, p. 494) made reference to Rev. Fr. SCHULTE's aeroplane journey on which he carried the Rev. Fr. Julien COCHARD who was seriously sick from the mission of Arctic Bay to the hospital at Chesterfield Inlet. It is the dramatic account as narrated by the aviator himself to Mgr Richard J. Cushing, diocesan director of the Propagation of the Faith in Boston, and presented to the public.

BADERSKI, Stanislaw, O. M. I. — Dziwaczna Religia Która jest anty-patryotyczna, anty-protestanska, anty-katolicka, anty-zydowska. In-16°, 30 pp. St Paul, Minn. « Radio Replies ».

Rev. Fr. BADERSKI, Superior of the Holy Ghost Church, Winnipeg, presents the Polish translation of a pamphlet which appeared in the series « Catholegetics », Radio Replies, edited by the Rev. Fr. Charles Mortimer Carty. The circulation of these pamphlets numbers 1.400.000 copies. Each copy is sold at 5. Missions and retreats is a good method of distribution. Rev. Fr. BADERSKI's pamphlet unmasks the « Witnesses of Jehovah ». The title reads : « A Rather Funny Religion ; anti-patriotic anti,protestant, anti-catholic, anti-Jewish. »
